Sixteen Men Are Missing After Steamboat Burns

Ten Members of Crew Saved After Ship Destroyed

No Trace Is Found of Missing Members of Vessel

CARGO IS LOST

Rescued Were Stiff and Cold When Picked Up

STANFORD, Conn., April 25.—(AP)—Sixteen members of a crew of the Long Island Sound freighter Thames were missing and ten were saved after the vessel had burned off the coast late last night. Nine of the ten members picked up were taken to Providence by the steamship Lexington and one was picked up by an oyster boat who rejoined his family in Bridgeport.

The water's edge was searched for miles around last night and today a coast guard control boat is cruising about over the waters, no trace of the members of the boat has been found. The ill-fated boat plied between Boston and New York on its cruises.

Captain Robert Sherman, taken to Providence following the fire, stated in a hospital there that he believed the blaze started in the boiler room.

All the members who were rescued were stiff with cold and helpless when picked up. They were stripped of their clothing and put beneath blankets.

Many to Attend River Celebration

State Officials and Orators To Speak At Affair

ARKADELPHIA, April 25.—Fully 5,000 people are expected at the celebration of the opening of the new state highway bridge across the Ouachita river between this city and Malvern, May 7, and preparations are well advanced on the program. The bridge, which is on Highway No. 67, is 1,200 feet long and rates as one of the finest in this part of the state.

Acceptance of invitations to speak at the ceremonies have been received from Dr. C. H. Broughton, who will be master of ceremonies; Governor Harvey Parnell, Highway Commissioner Dwight Blackwood, State Engineer C. C. Christian, Highway Commissioner Justin Matthews and others. An invitation has been extended also to Senator T. H. Caraway.

The celebration will be in the form of a big basket picnic. The people of Malvern, Arkadelphia, Donaldson and Friendship as well as of the country surrounding each will participate. Each will bring his own basket of lunch.

Music will be furnished by the Ouachita College band, and bands from the two cities. The public schools will turn out for the day and stores will be asked to close most of the day.

The new bridge shortens the highway between Malvern and Arkadelphia four miles. It is on the route that has been designated the Broadway of America, entering Arkansas from Missouri and going into Texas by way of Texarkana. The entire route will be paved within 18 months according to the highway department. Much of it already is paved.

Western Union Will Get Simplex

To Increase Efficiency Over 50 Per Cent Manager Says

Dale Wilson, manager of the Western Union Telegraph and Cable company in this city, will leave Monday for Tulsa, Tex., where he will take a three-months course in simplex automatic typewriting, which will be installed in the local office. This system is in use in all the larger cities, and will increase efficiency in the local office more than 50 per cent.

Candidate

Robert (Bob) Evans

Robt. (Bob) Evans Runs for Sheriff

Well Known Peace Officer Candidate in August

Robert (Bob) Evans makes his formal announcement as a candidate for sheriff and collector, in today's issue of The Star.

In offering himself as a candidate in the Democratic primary election, to the voters of Hempstead county, Mr. Evans is seeking the kind of a job with which he is familiar. He served two years with the military police while in the army. He has been collector of DeRoan township for four years, and is considered to be a highly competent peace officer.

Mr. Evans in his announcement calls attention to the fact that while constable and deputy sheriff he was on the job day and night whenever there was work to be done, and that it never rained too hard, or was too cold, for him to serve the people whose trust he held.

In his transactions he handled the business of the constable's office in an efficient manner, remitting all moneys promptly to the proper agency. His final settlement with the county was complimented by the county clerk for accurate and efficient handling.

Mr. Evans' formal statement declares: "I elected to the office of sheriff and collector I promise the voters the same good service I gave them as constable. I will use none on my force but clean, sober and conscientious gentlemen."

"While serving as a peace officer I tried to be courteous, and yet had the reputation of always getting my man. In all my public career I have never had to shoot a man, and yet I handled some of the worst criminals in the history of Hempstead county."

"I have never used the double-crossing method of catching law-violators; and if elected to the sheriff's office I promise not to use that kind of method then."

I believe in strict law-enforcement, regardless of what kind of law, and in all of my work I will handle the affairs of the office in a business-like manner, treating everyone alike, believing the laws to have been made to cover both rich and poor, not merely one class."

Ex-Sheriff Finds Valley of Outlaws

Bearden Tells Weird Tales After Return With Prisoner

TEXARKANA, April 25.—A valley of fugitives, peopled largely by furtive, silent men, living to themselves in a land where neighbors are few and far between, was painted here Friday by Jim Bearden, former Hempstead county sheriff, following his return from Arizona with Frank Stinnett, who was surrendered by his bondsmen in a year-old liquor case in Arkansas federal court.

On west from Phoenix, between great mountain ranges, on a level, arid expanse whose chief production is waist high mesquite, men who have taken to the law have been taken home, presumably under a promise with the prayer that they will be forgotten.

They are gun toters all, these bearded desert dwellers—uncommunicative to strangers and even to those living

Consolidation of Hempstead School Districts Probable

Several Districts Near Nashville Propose Consolidation

OVER 500 PUPILS

Plan Formulated With Assistance of County Superintendent

NASHVILLE, April 25.—(Special)—Petitions are now being prepared for circulation in the districts affected, asking for the consolidation of several of the school districts of North Hempstead county with the Nashville school district, the consolidation to be under the provisions of the recent school law.

The petition stage of the proposed consolidation has been reached after the school people of the several districts had searched for a plan for the advancement of their school interests and had decided that the best solution of the problem was a consolidation with the Nashville district, since the Nashville district is their nearest point, and is considered the home town, by a majority of the citizens in the territory affected. The plan was formulated with the assistance of County Superintendent E. E. Austin of Hempstead county and was presented to the school board of the Nashville district several weeks ago. The local board has held several meetings on the matter with representatives of the affected districts and of the state educational department in attendance, and after a thorough study of the plan from every angle, Wednesday night voted agreeably on the matter, leaving it now to the people to decide finally upon the consolidation.

President C. G. Hughes of the Nashville school board stated that the proposed consolidation will affect more than 500 pupils, at least 75 of whom are high school students. The Bingen, Tokio and Yancy districts are included in the list of school districts which are in the proposed consolidation.

"Yet wealth does not tell all of it, or even most of it. Character is a factor. Education is another one. The chemical contents of men's bodies make them of almost equal value. Education adds something, the average annual income of an illiterate person is about $450. A man with a grade school education commands about $1,000 a year. If he has a high school diploma he will receive on the average $2,000 a year—and the college man gets from $3,000 a year on up, with an unlimited goal for the individual."

"Sole consideration of wealth presents an unpleasant view to the American. You hear it said in many towns. 'This will never be a progressive place until we have half a dozen good funerals.' What they mean is that there are some citizens in that town who have the wherewithal to do things; but never turn it loose on any public and unselfish enterprise."

George W. Ware, vice-president, presided over the club luncheon in the absence of E. F. McFadden, who is out of the city.

The program was in charge of C. C. Spragins. Other visitors besides Dr. Anderson, were the following guests: Rotarians: Lloyd Williamson of De Queen; and Jim Cole and Paul Massey, of Prescott.

Jealousy Causes Double Killing

Divorced Wife of Well Known Stage Actor Is Dead

LA GUNA, Cal., April 25.—(AP)—Two bullets, one in the back and one in the head, ended the life of Mrs. Doris Murray Palmer, La Guna beach society prom queen, it was disclosed by officers today in investigating yesterday's double shooting which ended the life of Adelle Richie, divorced wife of the well known stage actor Guy B. Post.

Previously authorities had only found one bullet wound, that in the back of Mrs. Palmer, 35-year-old close friend of the former stage star.

Mrs. Palmer was known as an art designer and scenery decorator for a play house here. Mrs. Post was found with a bullet wound in the mouth, and two exploded shells were discovered near her body along with a revolver. Mrs. Post was known on the stage as Adelle Richie. She was seen moving about the Palmer home about one hour before the bodies were found.

Mrs. Palmer is believed to have been slain early in the afternoon within fifteen minutes of the time Mrs. Francis Berry, society lady, called to deliver investigations to a luncheon that excluded Mrs. Post.

Sheriff Sam Journein said he believed the invitations "fanned" jealousy between the two women and in the frenzy Mrs. Post shot Mrs. Palmer and then turned the pistol on herself.

School Boy Killed When Hit By Auto

PARAGOULD, April 25.—(AP)—Running out of the school yard into the path of an automobile which was driven by his uncle, Will Foster, yesterday afternoon, Lloyd Powell, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Powell, of Rector received injuries from which he later died at a hospital here.

Both of the youth's legs were broken, and he suffered internal injuries.

Seek Coast-to-Coast Air Record

When Captain Roscoe Turner turns the nose of his special monoplane toward New York soon in attempt to set a new transcontinental non-stop record from Los Angeles, another, equally daring aerial speed demon will occupy a compartment in the ship. The passenger will be "Gilmora," an air-minded cub, shown above with Captain Turner in the cockpit.

Dr. Anderson in Rotary Address

Human Values, His Topic At Club Luncheon

An address on human values and their relationship to family, self and state, was given to the Rotary club at its luncheon today in Hotel Barlow by the Rev. W. R. Anderson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

"The richest man in China came to America during the administration of General Grant," Dr. Anderson said, "and his first question put to the president, 'What are you worth?'"

"We Anglo-Saxons would have regarded it as impertinent—but not the Chinese; for in China the caste system is founded on wealth. China's first citizen asked a perfectly natural question of the first citizen of America."

"Yet wealth does not tell all of it, or even most of it. Character is a factor. Education is another one. The chemical contents of men's bodies make them of almost equal value. Education adds something, the average annual income of an illiterate person is about $450. A man with a grade school education commands about $1,000 a year. ## Much Drinking Among Students

Says 25 Percent of High School Students Drink

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP)—Asserting that "there is a greater percent of drinking among high school students than they themselves say, their own parents do," senator Tydings, of Maryland, democrat, and a wet leader, today lay before the senate statistics which he said showed deplorable effectiveness of prohibition.

Tydings quoted statistics gathered by the Methodist Board of Temperance and Public Morale. He stated that "twenty-five per cent of the high school students use intoxicants." He used a clip sheet to present his statements in which he said was sent out by the board to newspapers throughout the country.

Legion Enrollment Now Totals 9,834

Only 13 of 108 Posts in State Under 1929 Membership

Out of 108 active Legion posts in Arkansas, only 13 so far have failed to surpass last year's membership total, it was announced yesterday by Hugh W. Wicker, state adjutant of the American Legion.

With 9,834 members enrolled up to yesterday, the Arkansas Department still holds the leadership among all states in the membership campaign being conducted by the Legion, having exceeded its 1929 quota by 35 per cent. Three Southern states follow Arkansas in the order named: North Carolina, West Virginia and Tennessee.

The Arkansas Department has the largest enrollment in its history, last year's membership of 6,152 already being surpassed by several thousand. Mr. Wicker predicted the goal of 10,000 members would be reached by May 1. It is expected the enrollment will total nearly 11,000 when the state convention opens September 1, at Fort Smith.

Three membership trophies already have been won this year by the Arkansas Department, and high hopes are held of winning the honor of leading the parade at the national convention in Boston next October, this honor going to the department having largest percentage of its quota based on eligibles, at the close of the campaign June 5. Legionnaire eligibles in this state number 12,345.

Legion Refuses to Manage Festival Fate Uncertain

Unable To Get Boden-Hamer as Speaker Here

WIRES REGRETS

National Commander Answers from Wyoming Town

The management of the 1930 Watermelon Festival, which had been offered the American Legion after its successful handling of last year's show, was rejected by that body at a meeting last night in Hope city hall.

The Legion offered to co-operate in any way possible, but declined to be the responsible head of the Festival. The management was tendered the Legion by Hope Chamber of Commerce, and the latter body will be informed of the Legion's action at the board meeting to be held in May.

Ward Bodenhamer, Post Commander Barney Hamm told the Legion membership last night that the local post would have accepted the burden of this year's Festival had it been possible to obtain O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander, as the speaker. Every effort was made to obtain Major Bodenhamer as the presence of the El Doradoan would have made a tremendous drawing card for the local Legion as well as the Watermelon Festival.

Bodenhamer was unable to accept, Mr. Hamm read the following telegram from the national commander last night:

"B. R. Hamm, Commander American Legion, Hope, Ark.:

"Previous engagement of long standing in Northwestern states makes acceptance of your invitation to the Watermelon Festival August 7 impossible. My sincere regrets. Explain and express my regrets to Dewey Hendrix, Roy Anderson, E. F. McFadden, Alex. Washburn and Chamber of Commerce, all who whom were kind enough to wire. Regards: O. L. BODENHAMER.

"April 24, 1930.

"Rawlins, Wyoming."

The Legion's refusal makes the fate of the 1930 Festival very uncertain. Final action will probably be taken at the May meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Legion last night voted to sponsor boxing matches during the coming season under the management of Leo Robbins and Robert Campbell, well known cotton men. They will use the Hope Skating rink as the fight arena.

A meeting will be held in the near future in the old state capital at Washington, with veterans of that city, celebrating the restoration of the old building with state funds that were appropriated by the last legislature.

Convicts Orderly At Ohio Prison

Howling Mob of Yesterday Quiet For First Time

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 25.—(AP)—Apparently accepted restoration of prison discipline, convicts in the Ohio prison, scene of a disastrous fire Monday night, went to breakfast this morning in an orderly manner. For the first time in four days the men marched in fine and snappy style.

Prison guards were amazed at the convicts when only yesterday they were a howling mob, refusing to abide by orders and refused to heed orders until their demand to remove Warden Preston Thomas was carried out. The warden, however, was not removed. Two more prisoners died this morning which brought the death toll to 320.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 25.—(AP)—Hubert L. Richeson, day guard at the Ohio prison, contradicted testimony of other guards in investigating this week's disastrous prison fire when he declared today that the doors to ranges in which 315 convicts suffocated, was open all during the fire.

Robinson is one of the best-known authorities on aviation in the west. Until recently, he was chief of test pilots for the Curtiss Corporation in Southern California. William A. Wellman, director of "Wings," also made "Young Eagles."

A NEWSPAPER CONFESSES

THE BALTIMORE EVENING SUN decided that on its twentieth birthday it would throw a little party and invite the public to come. So it announced that as a feature of the celebration it would ask that its readers express their opinion and honest opinion of the paper. (It is hardly necessary to remind that the Baltimore Sun papers are recognized as two of the finest in the land.)

Well, after the "party" the Sun took an inventory, checked up, and the efficiency boys call it. Its first error was in supporting Al Smith for the presidency merely because it thought that it would be a good thing for the country to have a plain and honest man to preside over its political destinies.

Error No. 2 was perpetrated when the Sun hinted that a man who "sat in the Harding cabinet and failed to note the smells emerging therefrom was hardly well enough equipped in the olfactory sense to sit with the Supreme Court, referring, of course, to Charles Evans Hughes.

In its "home" policy, so to speak, the Sun kicked up a fuss because certain streets weren't widened to relieve traffic conditions. It complained because no excessive effort had been made to rid Baltimore of the smoke evil. It reminded the city government that despite the fact that much machinery for street cleaning was bought the chief ally of the department was rain.

The Sun fought the United Railways' demand for a 10-cent fare, which it got. It bawled for recognition of the existence of the Bill of Rights, even in prohibition cases. It complained because the Anti-Saloon League dictated the appointment of judges.

And when the Sun heard from some of the nation's columnists who expressed their opinion of the paper they found out these things:

Senator Tydings didn't like the paper because of its big headlines. Governor Ritchie thought its editorials were too flippant. Senator Goldsberg feels that the Sun belittles Government. Dry leaders view it as "Smart Alec." Others oppose its wet views, its mass of advertising and its split initiatives.

And so the editor of the Baltimore Evening Sun dons sack cloth and ashes and declares: "All in all, it's a pretty disheartening story." But he need not cry out in his sorrow. All we can say is: "You'll get your reward in Heaven, Brother."

Growing Radishes An Industry

QUANTITY production at low cost seems to be the trend in many agricultural lines, but when we were boys we never dreamed of growing radishes except in beds not larger than 8x16 feet. We have lived long enough to learn that it is profitable to grow this vegetable by the acre. In the vicinity of Horatio, DeQueen, Gillham, Hope, Texarkana, Blyvens, Prescott, Mineral Springs and Wilmot, Southwestern Arkansas, there is a total of 3,000 acres. Radishes move out of this territory in trains of 10 to 15 carsloads at a time.

This is comparatively a new industry for Arkansas, but it has proved profitable. Like all other specialized crops there is a chance of overdoing it. When other sections learn that farmers in Southwestern Arkansas have made money by growing radishes in quantity, some promoter will get busy and develop a lot of competition. When that happens, no one will make money, and the growing of radishes will be given up only to be carried on somewhere else.—Farm & Ranch.

GLIDING through the air from coast to coast may be all the delightful sensation Frank M. Hawks says; nevertheless he would as soon let Hawks do it.—Los Angeles Evening Express.

FROM now on the question before Illinois will be "The Lady or the Lion?"—Des Moines Tribune-Capital.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — Anyone who has listened in daily at the hearing of the Senate lobby investigating committee wonders why the exchange of such epithets as "contemptible liar," "contemptible coward" and "contemptible cur" between witnesses and committee members haven't been common from the beginning. The surprising thing is that no one at these hearings has ever been poked in the nose.

Some of the witnesses have stood for a great deal. So much in fact that the theory most often offered in explanation is that they must have guilty consciences. Editor J. E. Pierce of the Huntville Daily Times, apparently didn't have one. He was so well exchanged with the committee that he had less to complain about than some other witnesses who had been badgered.

Caraway is busy.

Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway of Arkansas, the chairman, has harpooned one witness after another. He plunges the barb in and then twists it around. As the hearing adjourns he is as likely as not to stop around and assure the victim that he likes him personally. But that's a huge surprise for the witness.

"Bulldog Tom" Walsh of Montana does all the heavy examining. Walsh can be ferocious enough if the witness doesn't seem to be willing. When relentlessly hounding a lobbyist or roaring a witness into submission Walsh is at his very best. And he can build nice thick little hedges around them from which it is very hard to escape.

Senator Arthur Robinson, the sly fox from Indiana, pursues cold trails vigorously, draws far-fetched conclusions and then tries to prove them. He can insult witnesses as well as the other members and when he squirts his gimlet eye upon them many of them must fear that he is about to leap at their throats. Arthur is the only regular Republican on the committee and it has fallen to his lot to protect the administration and all orthodox Republicans whose activities become of interest to the committee.

The leading Borah is a member but hardly ever shows up. John J. Blaine, the mastiff from Wisconsin, is perhaps the kindest of the five inquirers. Sometimes, though, things are a little hard for Mr. Blaine to understand and he displays remarkable tenacity on such occasions.

Caraway is in a class by himself, the man-eating shark of the committee. On how he has enjoyed these daily workouts! He paces behind the committee table, throwing in digs at random. Unintentionally or otherwise, he persistently conveys the impression that he believes the witness before him to be the greatest thief unguessed. Sometimes he seems to get the witness thinking so, too. Some of these witnesses are obviously scared to death before they even sit in the witness chair; others may be but fail to show it. The fact that they have let Caraway get away with so much either speaks well for their splendid self-control or indicates that they feel, all things considered, discretion to be the better part of valor.

A huge plane groping blindly through sudden fog sky-ship into the twisted, fire-blackened mass of steel and 130,000 volts of electric city converted the once proud crowds watched a high tension wire crash landed in formal evening attire, met instant death. One was Count Henry de la Vaulx, shown in inset, famous founder of the Aero Club of France and president of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale.

Who drives the horses of the sun
Shall lord it but a day;
Better the lowly deed were done,
And keep the humble way.

The rust will find the sword of fame;
The dust will fill the crown;
Ay, none shall hail to high his name
Till he will not fear it down.

The happiest heart that ever beat
Was in some quiet breast
That found the common daylight sweet,

2 Bodies Found Under Negro Home

Blytheville Sheriff Starts Investigation After Discovery

BLYTHERVILLE, April 24.—(AP)—Two bodies, long buried, were found here today under a negro servant's house. They appeared to be bodies of a man and woman, but whether white or black could not be determined. Immediately after the discovery of the two bodies, Sheriff W. W. Shaver started an investigation.

The skulls of the two persons indicated that they had been crushed. The negro tenant found the bodies when he dug them out of time in searching for a "strong odor" in the house.

The Husband Hunter

© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE INC. BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

NATLIE CONSIDERED it to be a very serious matter when she learned that her husband had been killed. She had been told that he had been killed by a man named "Bobby". She had been told that he had been killed by a man named "Bobby". She had been told that he had been killed by a man named "Bobby".

Natlie told herself that he wanted to know how much she found out before committing himself to any line of defense. She had been told that he had been killed by a man named "Bobby". She had been told that he had been killed by a man named "Bobby".

CHAPTER VII
ALAN had a faint hope that Natlie would apologize for her behavior. He wanted her to come to him and tell him she was sorry, ask him to forgive her. Only a thorough clearing away of the misunderstanding would put their marriage back on a normal basis.

Natlie told herself that he wanted to know how much she found out before committing himself to any line of defense. She had been told that he had been killed by a man named "Bobby". She had been told that he had been killed by a man named "Bobby".

ALAN completely lost his temper. "You see he is something to me," he declared warmly. "my favorite child." He saw Natlie's face go as white as chalk. It brought a laugh from him.

Knoxville Offer
Pleases Hamilton
Obstacles to Transfer of Mobile Club Remain, However

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 25.—(AP)—Jimmie Hamilton, president and manager of the Mobile Club of the Southern Association, said Thursday that he had been assured that financial arrangements would be made for the club if the franchise is transferred here.

Hamilton said that the purchase of all stock in the Mobile club, consent of the Southern Association for transfer of the franchise here, and assurance of "Sunday baseball" in Knoxville were necessary to effect the deal. Hamilton met with about 50 Knoxville citizens and later held a conference with J. B. Ramsey, bank president, and others, concerning financial backing.

City councilmen assured Hamilton that an ordinance could be passed legalizing Sunday baseball. Councilman W. N. Smithson said that an attendance of 6,000 could be counted on for Sunday, while the average daily attendance during the week would exceed 1,000.

"I think Southern baseball will go good here," Hamilton said.

comes more prosperous, so do Ozan, Washington and Hope increase in wealth, in educational and civic advantages. As our people become better informed, they will gain in prosperity and happiness, he said.

The rapid spread of all-year roads, which will come day in the future spread to every county road, the farmer will be more content and more prosperous than was ever thought possible before.

As educational advantages spread, the people of the most remote rural communities will have every advantage of education and refinement, offered in the city with every civic improvement, if they are willing to pay the price, the audience was told. And we get nothing in life unless we are willing to pay the price. These better schools, offering even more competent instruction, for eight or ten months in the year for eight or ten years and at lower cost to the individual who is paying a school tax, will come with the rapid spread of consolidated school districts.

The Rev. W. P. Marman, Kiwanian, was in charge of the program. He rendered two numbers upon his broom-stick violin.

The Washington Quartet also rendered some of their splendid numbers. John Barrow, leading citizen of Ozan, extended a warm welcome to the visiting Hope Kiwanis club.

The next good will trip to be undertaken by the club is to be made to Patmos one week from next Thursday night.

close at hand. Instead of the horse of up-to-date fiction, they have turned for transportation to the rattlesnake slither. The criss-cross trails of their wheel tracks, individually made, individual used, furnish the only semblance of a "road." It is easy to get lost, the trails are so much alike. Bearden will testify to that.

On the eastern edge of this wide desert, on a mountain visible from the spot where Bearden, acting as a special agent of the bondsmen, "got his man," the notorious Irene Schroeder and her two men companions were captured by a posse after a bloodless gun battle last January. They were wanted for the slaying of a Pennsylvania state trooper in December. Presumably they are fleeing toward the same desert which so many other fugitives have found hospitable, when they were cornered near Lavine, Ariz.

In contrast to this desolate section, where two wells—one of them alkaline and worthless—furnish the sole moisture for miles around, Bearden found spots of rich fertility in Arizona. It's a wonderful country, in his estimation. On his trip he visited a colony established by a former group of Hope residents. One of them, who started off years ago homesteading a 10-acre tract, has made a fortune in citrus and truck growing.

Getting back to Stinnett, who was committed to the Arkansas city jail by United States Commissioner R. F. DuComb Friday in default of $3000 bond, just double the former amount—he has been the object of a search through three states conducted by his surities. A. L. Martin, and M. S. Pale, since last summer.

He was arrested on a charge filed July 18, accusing him of possessing and selling whisky here on May 1, 1935. He made a temporary bond of $1500, but failed to appear for his preliminary hearing, according to court attaches. No action was taken on the bond at the last term of court, but a forfeiture was in process for the coming May term, after which federal authorities would have taken up the chase.

Martin made two trips to Amarillo, Texas, to hunt the fugitive. On one occasion, Stinnett rode his escape through the back door of a plant at which he was employed, while Martin was accosting one of the man's friends in whose name he had been receiving mail. He finally employed Bearden about two weeks ago.

Two young daughters, Oral and Suleta, whom Stinnett took with him on his flight—a flight which dissipated a considerable sum of money he had when he left Texarkana—were the unwitting cause of his capture.

It was through them that friends of Martin learned that the father was in the approximate vicinity of Buckeye, Ariz., which is 40 miles west of Phoenix, and it was through them, again, or rather through their distinctive names, that Bearden was able to spot the fugitive.

Learning that mail bearing the Christian names of the 12 and 14-year-old daughters had been delivered from the Buckeye postoffice in care of one "Cantrell," Bearden traced down the government land records to find the location of a section held by "H. Cantrell" under the homestead regulations, about 11 miles out in the desert.

It was only by posing as a seeker of homestead land himself that Bearden was able to obtain any information. When he began the final search, it was for a neighbor of "Cantrell," near whom he expected to find the other.

Taking with him a deputy sheriff from Phoenix, Bearden found Cantrell, the only well in the section. Stinnett, his daughters, and a nephew admitted his identity after a short conversation, and returned with the daughters in Bearden's custody. The daughters were left with an aunt in Sulphur Springs.

It required three trips to locate Stinnett's homestead through the maze of trails and the obscuring mesquite, and the party got lost again before it struck the Padgett trail to "civilization."
